DIAMOND A CROSSING

Wheelmen Must Ride at Eight Miles an Hour.

CHANGES IN THE ORDINANCE

Bells Must be Sounded When Streets Are Crossed, and the Business Part of the City Is Placed on the Same Basis—The Committee Met.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of council to arrange the proposed ordinance governing wheelmen, have decided on several important changes that will likely be inaugurated in the law at the meeting of council tonight.

The only members of the committee present were President Marshall and Solicitor Clark, and after they had waited for a time they decided to work on the law alone, and then let other members of the committee look over it. The ordinance was changed so that wheelmen must carry bells and ring them at all crossings. Speed on crossings and when turning corners must not be greater than eight miles an hour, the Diamond being placed in this last arrangement. All wheelmen must ride from the south side of Fifth street on Market to the north side of Sixth street at the same pace they would use in turning a corner. If they are riding on an unpaved street when the road is muddy they have the privilege of taking the pavement, but must at all times give pedestrians the right of way. The wheelmen are protected by a fine placed upon those who throw on the streets tacks, broken glass or other substances calculated to puncture a tire. This clause will aid a little in keeping the streets clean. There is no provision about lamps, and the ordinance will probably be passed as the committee have arranged it, since the wheelmen relinquish numerous privileges accorded them in other cities of greater population.

THE DOG SUICIDED.

He Did Not Like His New Home and Jumped Out of a Window.

A clear case of suicide on the part of a dog weary of the cares and trials of this troublesome life is the talk of Smoky Row today.

Yesterday Ben Scharr, the saloonist, decided he would like to have a nice dog, and knowing that Frank Riley, of the East End, had one that would suit his requirements, promptly bought it. The purchase price was $1, and subsequent events proved that it would have been cheap at double the money, for the canine was endowed with certain powers that would have made it valuable had they been exerted in the right direction, instead of for the evil which the animal eventually accomplished. When the dog was brought to its new home it showed a strong desire to return, and its new owner put forward every effort to make the stranger feel comfortable. But it had no effect on the dog, and it was placed in an upper room, where Scharr argued it could not escape. But he didn't know that dog, and the canine made no move that would foreshadow his intention. When the door was closed upon him the dog surveyed the room, and seeing an open window in the front walked to the wall farthest from it. Then with a series of bounds, the best he could command, he ran across the floor, and shot through the window, falling heavily to the pavement. It was all over in a minute, and when they raised the bruised and battered body from the hard bricks the dog was dead. It had given up its life for another glance at home.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

The Story of Some Stolen Carpets and Rugs.

Two years ago last spring, when housecleaning was the bane of every man's life, the wife of a well known resident had the carpets and rugs in their house well cleaned, and placed in the yard ready for relaying. She employed a man to perform the task, but when he went to the place where the big rolls were last seen it was only to find them missing. The lady marveled much at the theft, but having no thought of the identity of the thief she could do nothing but trust in the future, and wait until some unforeseen circumstance would appear to throw light on the mysterious happening. As the years went by and she heard nothing she gave up all hope, and had yielded to the argument of the family that the carpets were gone forever. But the other day she found them, was convinced of their identity, and quickly brought down punishment upon the heads of those responsible for the theft.

The lady's daughter chanced to call upon an acquaintance, and when she came home stated that she had seen the carpet in the house, and recognized it beyond a doubt. As this was the first tangible clue, it was acted upon without delay, an officer being called in to lend his aid and the effect of his brass buttons. A formal demand was made for the carpet, and the sight of the policeman had a wonderful effect in making it appear that one of the most sensational cases in the history of the city would be the result if payment was not made at once. The money was not long in appearing, and the matter settled without the world knowing anything about it.

In discussing the story last evening a group of city officials and a business man decided the officer compounded a felony by not arresting the offender, and exposing the whole case. A lawyer in the group said the purpose of the law was not carried out when crime can be hidden by a few dollars.

TOO MUCH PRESUMPTION.

Hon. R. W. Tayler has a Word for Meddling Democrats.

Hon. R. W. Tayler was in Washington yesterday, and in mentioning his visit a press dispatch says:

"His mission was one of business, and he did not discuss politics to any great extent. He said, incidentally, that since it would be the duty of the incoming Congress to supply funds to meet the deficit, the Democrats are presuming too much when they attempt to dictate how the revenue shall be raised.

"The Democrats may expect that we will raise the revenue our own way," he said, "but I have no doubt the president will be inclined to play the dog in the manger act if we enact a tariff bill or improve upon the present one. He has the power of veto, but we will see how he will use it."

THE HUGHES CASE.

The Saloonist Has Not Yet Given Bond for Appeal.

When acting Mayor Morley Saturday refused a new trial in the case of Harry Hughes it was expected that bond would be given at once, so that the case could be carried to common pleas court.

At the hour of going to press the required bond had not been given, nor had the fine been paid, and unless the former is done soon the authorities will compel payment of the penalty imposed. Hughes is still determined to appeal the case, but he will not be backed by the Liquor League, as he is not a member of that organization. The league, however, watched the proceedings carefully and will paste the final result of the case in their several hats.

NEW PAPER.

May Be Put On School Rooms In the City.

An informal meeting of the school board was held last evening, the only members present being Messrs Taylor, Smith, Nellis and Owen. The contract for placing seats in the new building was not let, as the board had decided upon several important matters in connection with the plan, but it was not known whether the bidders would agree to the arrangement or want to bid again. The question of papering some rooms in the old buildings was discussed, and the necessity for a complete renovation shown. The members present could decide nothing, but it was the sense of the meeting that such an act was in justice due the teachers and scholars.

THOUGHT HE WAS DEAD

But it Was Only a Case of Plain Drunk.

Parties walking on Jefferson street last night were alarmed at seeing a man, who had a moment before been sitting on a door step, throw up his hands, fall to the ground, and straighten out as though dead. Visions of heart disease, and a dozen other causes of sudden death filled the minds of those who witnessed the happening, and they rushed to the spot. The man was raised to an upright position, and the odor which came from his mouth served to clear the mystery. He was dead—drunk.

A NEW SWITCH.

No More Swinging the Trolley at the Power House.

Workmen are engaged in the construction of a switch at the power house that will do away with the old system of backing cars on the heavy grade and compelling a delay while the other goes by. The company are also arranging to change the line at the Thompson pottery. Gravel is being hauled by the railroad, and then transferred to the river bank, which is being built out so as to make a new bed for the electric line. The change has long been in contemplation.

LEAPED OVER A CLIFF

The Tragic Ending of Three Dumb Brutes.

ONE DROPPED IN A TREE

The Other Two Went Down To Death Without Resistance, and Their Owner Brought Home Nothing But Their Hides. A Thrilling Incident.

A. N. Rayle, of Second street, witnessed a happening yesterday afternoon which cost the lives of three valuable cows, and $96 in good money.

He went to Ohioville and purchased the stock, and started to drive them to this city over the rough road which strikes the Smith's Ferry road a short distance on this side of the village. The cows were young and frisky, but all went well until they arrived at a point where the hillside is a cliff, with about 75 feet between the bed of the road and the bed of the stream. For some unaccountable reason the cows bolted at this point, and leaving the beaten path leaped over the cliff. Their owner saw what they were about to do, but before he could move to prevent it the cows had gone into space. Two of them fell through the distance without touching anything, and when they reached the ground were dead enough to make good meat, but the other was not so fortunate. It struck a tree in its descent, and its heavy weight snapping the branches, it slowly slid to earth. Rayle lost no time in getting to the bottom of the ravine, but upon examination found two cows dead and the other so badly hurt as to transform a cruel bullet into a beautiful blessing. The animals were then stripped of their skins, and Rayle came home with some future leather as the only reward for his hot, dusty trip and the expenditure of $96, the price of the cows. Old residents say the happening has not its equal in this part of the world.

SAD NEWS.

A. W. Scott's Cousin In a Terrible Accident and May Die.

A. W. Scott wrote to his cousin, Thomas R. Gass, of Marshall's Cross Roads, near Uniontown, Pa., a short time ago, asking him to join the East Liverpool club who will leave Aug. 1 to fish in the Potomac. The answer he received was the news of a terrible accident to the recipient of the invitation as well as his companion. Gass, who is a popular young man, was driving from his home to Uniontown, his companion being the young lady to whom he was engaged to be married. In crossing the railroad a shifter struck the carriage, wrecking it, and crushing the young lady's head to a jelly. She died a few hours later, and the unfortunate young man was so badly injured that his recovery is doubtful.

SPLIT HIS EAR.

Bathers Could Not Agree and One Got Hurt Last Night.

Charles Wood, a lad of about 15 years, was among a crowd of boys who bathed across the river last night. In diving he collided with a swimmer who had gone under a moment previous. This made the latter wrothy and he threatened to hurt Wood. He did not execute his threat immediately, but waited until Wood came out on a big rock and dealt him a blow on the head that sent him spinning. In falling his head struck against the bow of the skiff and his left ear was split until one part hung down against his neck and bled frightfully. Wood hastened to the office of Dr. Norris and had several stiches put in the cut, which will bother him for some time.

SWALLOWED COAL.

The Child Had a Lump In Its Throat and Almost Choked.

At the residence of Albert Campbell on Cadmus street there was an exciting scene last evening, the central figure being a baby with a piece of coal in its throat. The child was sitting on the floor, and in some manner unknown to its mother obtained a small bit of coal and put it in its mouth. The lump slipped down its throat far enough to choke the little one, and only prompt and careful attention saved its life. Campbell is a kilnman employed at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery.

WHAT TO EXPECT.

Some Observations from August of Other Years.

For 12 years observations taken in Ohio show the mean temperature of August to have been 70 degrees, the warmest being that of last year with an average of 71 and the coldest 12 years ago when it was 68. The highest temperature was noted east year when the mercury reached 104, and the lowest was in 1887 when it was 33. The average rain fall is 3.05, and the greatest precipitation was at Marietta 11.55 inches falling. The prevailing winds have been from the southwest and according to the averages, 14 days are cloudless, 11 partly cloudy, and six very cloudy.

PLAYERS AT HOME.

Carey and Westlake Take a Peep at Their Local Admirers.

George Carey, the star first baseman of the Baltimore team, left the Orioles in Pittsburg last night to see his friends in East Liverpool. He returned to his club on the noon train today, willing to give big odds on Baltimore holding the championship. East Liverpool has in Carey a player that will always uphold its reputation for turning out good men.

Westlake, the Liverpool boy who has been playing with the Pennsylvania League, is home for a few days. He has reason to feel good over his work this season as he has played splendid ball.

APPLY LOCALLY.

A Bit of Advice that Touches a Sore Point.

When a labor paper appears week after week for months without the insignia of the union label there is evident "something rotten in the State of Denmark." So much so that the smell of rottenness can be appeased neither by explanation, defense, makeshift or apology. No measure of contrition will heal the offense if persisted in.—Typographical Journal.

In submitting the above to the NEWS REVIEW, a union printer said to-day that it could be applied to a local labor paper with justice.

OSCHMANN LOST.

Squire Manley Decided in Favor of H. B. Esterline.

The attachment case of Ferd Oschman versus L. Esterline, proprietor of the defunct Exchange Hotel, was decided by Squire Manley at 7 o'clock last night. The squire found that H. B. Esterline owned the goods which his father had leased, and Oschman will give bond for the furniture now in his possession and carry the case up to common pleas court.

Thomas Pearce did not appear at Squire Morley's court yesterday afternoon and judgment was given James Petticord in his replevin case.

MASHED A WHEEL.

A Bicycle Collision in the Diamond Last Night.

John Gardner was riding his wheel through the Diamond last night, and Charley Spivey was coming from the opposite direction, also mounted on a bicycle. Each was making a creditable spurt on the same line, and they came together with a crash. Spivey went down to earth in an instant, and Gardner wondered what had happened, although his wheel was unhurt. On the other hand Spivey's wheel was a wreck, the rim being broken, the tire hanging limp, and the spokes a tangled bunch of piano wire.

A BAD BREAK.

John Cartwright Hurt in the Camp Ground Ball Game.

The East End ball club played with the Tombstones at the camp ground last night, and won by a score of 7-4. During the game John Cartwright, of Sixth street, caught for the Tombstones, and was struck on the little finger by a ball thrown by Percy Albright. The bone was broken and forced through the flesh in such a way as to cause him great pain. The accident cost the club the game, as it compelled a change of positions, putting players where they could not play.

NOT DEAD.

People Continue to Talk of a Public Park.

The seed sown by the NEWS REVIEW may yet result in a park where the old cemetery now stands. The public take kindly to the idea, and some men are enthusiastic. They want the city to order all bodies removed from that portion of the ground owned by the town, and the place nicely laid out in walks, providing a breathing spot that will take the crowd out of the Diamond each night, and give the people a better place to spend a pleasant hour or two.

Brownlee All Right.

In the party of Princeton students who were thought to have been captured by Bannock Indians last week is A. A. Brownlee, a son of Reverend Brownlee, at one time pastor of the United Presbyterian church in Wellsville. The boys are all right, and now out of danger. Young Brownlee has many friends in this vicinity.

A LOT OF PLAIN DRUNKS

Mayor Manley Quickly Settled the Fine and Costs.

THE PATROL MADE ONE RUN

Four Luckless Victims Dragged into Court. They Looked upon the Cup when it was Very Red, and are Sorry—Work House Applicants.

Common drunks have been scarce in police court for several weeks, and consequently it was a novel sight to see three victims of booze in the cooler at one and the same time. Beside these there were a couple of young prisoners, so that the jail presented a full appearance.

Cyrus Hansleman and William Trotter were having a good time at the lower end of Thompson's pottery yesterday afternoon, disposing of numerous bottles of whiskey between them, when they fell asleep and slumbered so heavily that the good people in that vicinity were afraid the noise would kill all the fish in the river. So they sent word to city hall and Officer Earle went to the scene about 6 o'clock. He marched the pair to city hall. Trotter said he was John Shires, but the alias didn't go and the charge was entered with his original name. Each man was fined $5.60, and not having the required amount they languish behind the bars today.

Joseph Prosser and John Allison were wandering about in Dew Drop alley this morning. Both had more whisky than they could conveniently handle. Patrolman McMillan told them to go home. Allison disappeared from view as he has a horror of city hall. Not so with the hilarious Joseph, and after the patrolman had told him five times to depart for his domicile he brought out his little wagon and removed Joseph to city hall. He is still in durance vile this afternoon with only $2.30 to pay the fine that will end his three week's spree.

WILLIAM WAS WARNED.

But He Took the Mayor's Lecture Philosophically.

William Hastings was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Meehan, of the railroad, for riding on a freight train without a ticket, or any other permit. When brought to city hall Hastings made no defense, and only smiled a meek acknowledgement as Mayor Manley poured words of council and warning in his ear. He was informed that his fine was $9.60, and if he could not pay he would have to face those awful bloodhounds at the Canton workhouse, and break stone in the quarry. He acknowledged that this was right, as he didn't have the price.

Hastings is a Beaver boy and was in jail at that place for the same offense just before coming here.

Terry Carmen still lingers in jail in default of $20.60 for assaulting Mrs. Fowler of lower Sixth street Saturday night. The girl to whom he is engaged is trying to save him from a trip to the workhouse.

ANOTHER DIVORCE.

The Grind Goes on Merrily at the County Seat.

Special to NEWS REVIEW.

LISBON, July 23.—Mrs. May Singer, of Wellsville, dropped a petition for divorce in the big hopper at the court house this morning, asking in addition the care of her minor child. She charges her husband, W. H. Singer, with cruelty, abuse and unfaithfulness.

The East Liverpool and Wellsville street railway company filed an answer to the suit of P. M. Smith today, simply stating that it had received the consent of the county commissioners before the line was built. All the charges in the suit are denied.

Probate Court to-day authorized a settlement in the damage case of the widow of Jas. M. Thorp against the Leetonia Forging Co. She gets $525, and they pay the costs. The suit has been in court two years.

William Rigdeon, of this place, began proceedings in probate court to recover his child. He says his wife left him a week ago, taking the child away, and now he wants it.

COUNCIL might discuss the street sweeper question with profit at the meeting tonight.

AS a juggler of figures Secretary Carlisle can beat the best dime museum calculator on earth.

MR. BRICE must overcome heavier opponents than Skyrocket Thurman before he again sits in the senate.

THESE four more years of Grover seem to be four years of exceedingly poor financiering on the part of his officials.

IT seems to be a cold day when a Canadian vessel can not swoop down upon some luckless American fishermen and take them in.

PLACE the crockery duty where it was in the McKinley bill, and the English potters will not lose sleep counting profits from the American trade.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND can prate and Secretary Olney can command, but United States military men will continue to join the Cuban army, and some day the queen of the Antilles will be ours.

THERE is a visible lack of enthusiasm in the announcement of aspirants for places on the Democratic ticket. All will be harmony at the Wellsville convention, because there are no honors in its gift worth fighting for.

HORR and Harvey are exchanging windy arguments in Chicago for dollars. The champion of gold and the champion of silver are in the debating business for revenue, and any force their words might possess is therefore lost. Paid patriotism is not near to the average American heart.

GOOD ROADS.

When the legislature meets next year it might with honor to itself and profit to the people devise some plan for county road improvement. Some obscure individual, whose name is already lost in the business of last year, conceived the idea of abolishing the law compelling a given amount of work on the roads, and the only friend, mean and little as it was, was taken from the mud paths dignified as roads in Ohio. What the state needs is some system that will permit the construction and maintainance of good pike roads, such highways as will permit travel in the winter season without the annoyance and expense attending a journey over roads of bottomless mud. The legislature can decide whether these roads should be built by the several counties or by the state. That is not the primary object. What is most needed is a system that will allow the farmer to reach a neighboring town and dispose of his product without unnecessary inconvenience. Ohio can well afford such roads, and can not longer plead poverty as an excuse for having them.

DENIAL BY HOLMES.

His Wife Present When He Made the Statement.

SHRINKS FROM HIM WITH HORROR

Her Statement Conflicts With That of Her Husband—Mrs. Conner's Nephew to Make a Murder Charge Against Holmes. Still Searching the Chicago House.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—At his own request, H. H. Holmes, insurance swindler and alleged wholesale murderer, has been brought into the office of District Attorney Graham and allowed to make a statement. It consisted substantially of a repetition of the story that he had placed the Peitzel children in charge of Hatch, his partner, and despite rigid cross-examining he persisted in his previous statements. When Holmes was brought into the room his wife, a young and rather pretty blonde, was present, having come from Indiana state. When their eyes met they seemed to shrink from each other, the woman especially manifesting a feeling of disgust and horror for the much-accused man.

To prove his assertion Holmes produced the diary kept by himself and wife in Toronto, where he alleges he gave the Pietzel children to Hatch. The diary would have confirmed some of his statements had not his wife given additional information. She declared that while they were living together in a Toronto hotel Holmes went away for two days, saying that he was going on a fishing trip. When he returned he was tired and there was mud on his trousers.

A Chicago special says: Mrs. B. F. Pietzel is back in Chicago after her trip to Toronto for the identification of the bodies of her children. She is now ready to tell all that she knows regarding the operations of Holmes as an insurance swindler. She made important statements regarding the swindles and the measures to carry them out, but says that she was kept in ignorance that any of them entailed murder.

More bones and articles of clothing have been turned up in the basement of Holmes' house. Some of the bones were from the butcher shop, but others resembled those of a human foot. In a chest holding secret belongings of Holmes the police found a vest identified as one worn by Holmes upon which were dark stains resembling blood. In a box were found a linen shirt and other articles of underwear. As the earth where these articles were found was not removed in laying the foundations of the house no reason for their burial can be assigned by the police except to hide murder. Close by is the bottom of the shaft which made quick connection between the top of the house and the basement, while just over the spot is the blind stairway which leads into the third floor by a trapdoor placed under a stationary bathtub. The detectives engaged in the examination of the house announced that in their opinion the house had been constructed for the purpose of deliberate slaughter. More care than ever will now be exercised in searching the premises.

One of the things found in the house was a noosed rope, which looked as if it had been used for hanging purposes.

Holmes will be charged with the crime of murder in the city of Chicago today. A warrant for his arrest on that charge will be sworn out by A. Minier, nephew of Julia L. Conner of Muscatine, Ia. Holmes will be charged in the warrant with having murdered Mrs. Conner sometime between the first of August and the first of November, 1893. The warrant will be placed in the hands of Inspector Fitzpatrick by Mr. Minier, and while it cannot be served at the present time, it will be acted upon the instant that Holmes is freed from the charges pending against him in Philadelphia.

Destroyed by the Earth Sinking.

BRUEX, Bohemia, July 23.—It has been definitely ascertained that 25 houses have been totally destroyed and 59 partly destroyed by the remarkable sinking of the earth here. The disaster has turned nearly 2,500 persons out of their homes, for it is feared that other houses will collapse in the same district.

BAD LUCK WITH ARMOR.

Plates Furnished For New Battleships In Bad Condition.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The navy department has been having bad luck lately in securing heavy armor plate for the big battleships, and owing to the rejection of about a dozen great plates the competition of the armor plating of these ships may be delayed for some months. Most of the plates were intended for the battleship Massachusetts and for Iowa. When they were submitted to the naval inspector his report to the department showed that the plates were badly burned in places on the surface.

In some cases there were depressions in the face of a 15-inch plate four feet long and two feet broad where the face had been burnt out to the depth of seven eighths of an inch. Not only was the plate weakened by the loss of metal at such points, but the metal below was decarbonized and reduced to the condition of wrought iron so that it could not be hardened by the Harvey process.

A Bad Headend Collision.

BRADFORD, Pa., July 23.—In a headend collision between the passenger train from Olean and a freight train on the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad, about one mile from East Smethport, Conductor Emmett Burdick had his ankle sprained and H. M. Saunders, a passenger of Smethport, was thrown over several seats and had his head cut. An unknown girl had her arm broke and several others were severely bruised. The freight train had orders to meet two trains at East Smethport, but in some manner the engineer misread the order and after the first train had passed started out with his train. The two engines came together with terrific force and both were almost completely demolished.

Princeton Students Probably Safe.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 23.—Encouraging news of the Princeton geological expedition has reached here in the form of two letters from Prof. Hatcher, who is in charge of the party, written from Dubois, Wyoming, on July 15. A short time before the party left for the Wind River district, Prof. Hatcher said that no danger need be apprehended from Indians at Jackson Hole, for, if necessary, the route would be changed and that section be omitted from the tour. It is thought here that this had been done, and the lack of more recent news is accounted for by the inefficient means of communication along the route taken.

Must Talk Forcibly to France.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The negotiations with the French government respecting the case of ex-United States Consul Waller, who is now under confinement in a French jail at Marseilles, are in a most unsatisfactory shape, and this, too, in spite of the best efforts of the department, exerted through Ambassador Eustis, to secure justice for Waller. It is becoming evident that if anything is to be accomplished it will be only by the display of a much more determined stand than has yet been assumed by our government.

Two Victims of a Shooting.

CALLAHAN, Fla., July 23.—Jasper N. Higginbotham, one of the best known men of this county, has been killed at Dyal's station by George Seymour, a notorious negro character. Seymour was wanted for some offense. The sheriff sent Higginbotham and Jim Dyal to make the arrest. The negro was found at a game of cards and began shooting when the men approached him. Higginbotham fell, but not until he had shot the negro.

Wants the Bullfight Prevented.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The secretary of the treasury has received from William Hosea Ballon, of New York, a vice president of the American Humane association, a letter protesting against the proposed bullfight at the Atlanta exposition and asking the secretary to use his good offices to avert a "national scandal" by preventing the importation of the bulls on the ground of their being "immoral imports."

Entered In English Races.

LEXINGTON, July 23.—The well-known Kentucky turfman, John E. Madden, has entered the bay yearling colt by Strathmore, Sam Hypocrite by Longfellow, and the brown yearling colt Kelston by Longfellow dam Annette, by Strachino, in the English derby, St. Ledger and other big events in England in 1897.

DEFENDER WINS AGAIN.

Another Defeat for the Gould Yacht by the New Boat.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Defender and Vigilant have sailed for the second time under the auspices of the New York Yacht club in a cup race. The contest was designed to furnish a basis of judgment to the American cup committee for the choice of the Defender in the international races this fall. The Defender won on Saturday and she won again by 9 minutes and 50 seconds, official time. The Defender started 20 seconds in advance of Vigilant at 11:24:30 a. m., and she finished the 30-mile triangular course at 3:44:20, thus Defender's elapsed time was 4:19:50. Vigilant started at 11:25:10 and finished at 3:54:10, and her elapsed time is 4:29, thus the boats have had a windward and a beating contest, and they have had the triangular course which afforded them two reaches and one practically windward run.

The result of the two races are before the cup committee, and it is problematical wheather any further trial races of the Vigilant or of any other boats will be had against Defender to finally settle which shall defend the American cup.

A FINE FOREIGN DISPLAY.

European Countries Will Have Nice Exhibits at Atlanta.

LONDON, July 23.—The foreign exhibition at the Cotton States International exhibition at Atlanta, Ga., will be a most successful one. His work here is completed. He said:

"Every important country will be represented, but Italy will make the best showing. Italy will send a large collection of statuary and carvings surpassing any before sent to America. France will make a fine exhibition of paintings, bronzes and tapestry, as well as exhibits from the Pasteur institute. England will make a good showing of electric appliances, as well as other products of towns like Sheffield and Bradford. Germany will send china and glassware; Belgium, machinery and cut glass, and Russia will make a display of furs, etc."

THREE BUGGIES COLLIDE.

Four People Badly Injured Going to the Deathbed of a Sister.

DECATUR, Ind., July 23.—Word was received here from Monroe that Miss Mary Elzey was dying. William and Thomas Elzey started in separate buggies with their wives to see their dying sister. A few miles from this city a young man and lady, who were out riding, attempted to pass both the Elzeys. The horse of William Elzey, who was in the rear, ran away and in almost a second the three rigs were crossed together.

The wounded and dying are: Mrs. William Elzey, head and shoulders crushed, is dying; Mrs. Thomas Elzey, shoulders and limbs broken, will die; Miss Myers, both legs and back broken, cannot recover; William Elzey, arms broken and internally injured, recovery doubtful.

The dying sister of the two brothers is calling for them, but is kept in ignorance of their fate.

Caution about the Use and Selection of Spectacles

"Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of 14 inches from the eyes with ease and comfort; also will be able to read it with each eye separately. If unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. The lenses sold in the cheap goods are of unequal density and have imperfectly formed surfaces. Continued use of these poorer lenses will result in positive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles of accomodation to supply the defects in the glass."

SILVER STANDARD IMPOSSIBLE

According to Horr's Argument, While Harvey Declares Free Coinage of Gold and Silver Is What We Need—Effect on the Laboring Man.

CHICAGO, July 23. — "Back-dates" were thrown to the dogs in the debate between Horr and Harvey. It was more than ever a case of Greek meets Greek, and interest in the tug of war heightened at once when it was seen that the days of Pericles, as well as 1792, 1816, 1873 and other years no matter how historic or important, were all barred more or less in favor of 1895.

Mr. Horr opened the dispute with a written argument touching the impossibility of maintaining a fixed ratio between gold and silver. As a result of experience, all of the civilized nations of the globe had discarded silver as a standard money. It was useless to exploit long tables of ratios to show whether a double standard could be maintained. The world had pronounced against silver.

Taking up Mr. Horr's eulogy of Senator Morrill, delivered on Saturday, Mr. Harvey charged that Senator Morrill erred in saying that no silver dollars had been coined for 40 years prior to 1873. Mr. Harvey read from the report of the director of the mint showing that silver dollars in greater or less amounts had been coined nearly every year.

Mr. Horr said that Mr. Morrill had not meant to say that not a dollar had been coined, but that none to speak of had been. At most it could be said that Mr. Morrill made a mistake. Mr. Harvey, in his book, had made a mistake, and a bad one, in stating the amount of silver which had been coined during the life of the government.

Mr. Harvey said that in raising the point of the coinage of silver prior to 1873, he wanted to establish a fact in history which had been obscured by false statements that such coinage had not taken place. He wanted to make this answer in presence of the gold men.

Mr. Harvey then defined scientific bimetallism to be the free coinage of both gold and silver at an assumed ratio; a change in the size of a gold dollar, whenever the parity between the gold and silver coins should require; the option to both individuals and the government to pay in the cheaper money. He held that, under the circumstances, silver would not depreciate, because there would be an unlimited demand at the ratio fixed by law, and no man would sell his bullion below the price at which he could have it coined. Mr. Harvey submitted a table to show that from 1687 up to 1873 the commercial ratio has remained remarkably close to the legal ratio, notwithstanding the demonetization of it by England and another of the great nations of the old world.

Mr. Horr said this matter of ratio has little or noth ng to do with the question. The fact was that all of the civilized nations of the world refused to recognize silver, and would only receive it at its bullion value measured in gold. What might be if the other nations should join in admitting silver to free coinage was one thing. For us to attempt it alone was another.

Mr. Horr then took up the proposition of Mr. Harvey's book, that making the dollar of one-half the present value would double the value of everything in the United States, except debts. Mr. Horr pronounced this absurd, saying we might as well say that if we cut our yardsticks in two it would double the amount of clothing in the country. He said Mr. Harvey seemed to be "stuck on sweet 16 to 1." In his book he proposed metallic values at parity by reducing the amount of gold in a gold dollar. Carried to its legitimate result the ratio would come to 16 to 1½, or 16 to 1. Mr. Harvey proceeded to argue that both gold and silver were the measures of values until 1871. Referring to the cutting of the yardstick in two, Mr. Harvey said that the gold men had doubled the yardstick in 1873. He asked whether, if half the gold in the United States were destroyed, the value of the gold dollar would not be doubled?

Mr. Horr shook his head.

Mr. Harvey said he would illustrate it in another way, which the farmers would understand. If half the wheat crop in the United States were destroyed, would not the price of wheat on the Chicago board of trade be doubled? In demonetizing silver in 1873 the gold yardstick had been doubled. The friends of silver were merely asking for the restoration of the measure by readmitting silver to coinage.

Mr. Horr, in reply to the charges that the demonetization of silver cut the value of products in two, said that if that were true, prices would at once have dropped 50 per cent. The fact was that they did not. If the destruction of half the wheat crop would raise prices fourfold, the demonetization in silver did not destroy it.

Returning to the attack, Mr. Horr said that Mr. Harvey did not care for ratio. What he wanted was a cheap dollar and the cheapening of the emoluments of labor. That was the most prosperous country in which its workmen were best paid.

Mr. Harvey said that a dear dollar and a cheap dollar were comparative terms to be measured by a man's circumstances. If a gold dollar was worth more than a silver dollar, some more costly substance might be found out of which to make dollars. He said he did not propose to allow Mr. Horr to pose as the friend of the laboring man. The gold men had thrown some four millions of workingmen out of employment and had put some of them in prison because they objected to having their wages decreased. Mr. Harvey promised, at the proper time, to show the logical relation of the gold basis to the workingman.

Mr. Horr said that it was in 1879 that we resumed specie payment, and the only money of final redemption was gold. He asked was distress abroad in the land from that time on? The fact is the years from 1879 to 1892 found our people better employed and at better wages than in any other same number of years since this government was formed. [Applause.]

Mr. Harvey said that Mr. Horr did not refer to "prosperity" of the country from 1873 to 1895. The word "tramp" was coined in 1873, and the United States census shows that depression has been increasing at a disproportionate ratio. So has the number of penitentiary convicts, persons confined in all classes of prisons, insane asylums and of suicide. The prosperity referred to had built up millionaires and multimillionaires, and strewed this country with millions of tramps and paupers, and men that do not know how they are going to provide for their families in the coming year. [Applause]. A change in relative production had no effect as long as the mines were open to the two metals. [Applause].

Mr. Horr said: "I have never said that the cheap price of silver was not on account of its over-production. Silver has become cheap in this world just precisely the same as wheat and iron, and zinc and lead and other articles have been cheapened, just precisely for the same reason. [Applause]. All of these articles have been cheapened by the natural laws which govern the production of every substance known to the producers in the world."

Mr. W. D. Wilcox of Chicago: "How about gold?"

Mr. Horr: "Gold the same. I am glad you asked me. Gold has depreciated in value in less than 100 years 50 per cent. It is cheaper now than it was in 1873. All articles that can be produced by inventions are cheaper than they were before the invention was made. Every method which brings machinery into play and puts less human toil into the production of any article cheapens that article. The whole trend of civilization is to cheapen human products, gold as well as silver and wheat. A large number of the articles today produced in the world have not been decreased in value by the demonetization of silver, but simply because the laws of production have crowded down the price. I can get today twice as much gold for a day's work following the plow as I did in 1849. The people of this country are paid in gold for their work; so they were in 1860. Wages are 70 per cent higher, paid in gold for the same amount of work, than in 1860. Has not gold depreciated then when you measure it with the great commodity of human toil?

"What I find fault with is that the silver men invariably leave out of their calculation this article of labor, and the article of labor is the greatest article known in the civilized world. Cut down the pay of labor and you paralyze the entire business of any nation. The men who do the work, especially in a republic like ours, are the men who consume."

Mr. Harvey: "Mr. Horr says that everything has been cheapened, including gold. To say that gold and products cheapen simultaneously is a financial contradiction. You buy gold by exchanging other property for it. When it takes more property to buy gold than formerly, gold has risen. Instead of becoming cheaper, gold has become dearer. That is the case now. And yet Mr. Horr, by sophistry, reasons that it has become cheaper. He says to the laboring man: You can buy more with a gold dollar now than you ever could, and then turns to you and says that gold is growing cheaper all the time."

WILL RESTORES SIGHT.

Effect of a Stronger Will Power on a Weaker One in West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, July 23.—A most remarkable case is reported from Montgomery, Fayette county, the heart of the Kanawha coal region. About four years ago John Carney, an honest and hardworking miner, was suddenly stricken blind while at work in the mines.

Among Carney's friends who frequently called upon him and talked and read to him was Mayor J. C. Montgomery. A few weeks ago he told Carney's wife that he believed Carney had lost the power of sight through some mental change, and not through any physical disability. He concluded to try his will power on Carney. Accordingly, Montgomery called at Carney's house, unknown to him, and was seated in a room alone. Presently Carney, as Montgomery and his wife desired, walked into the room and laid down on a couch to take his afternoon nap. Montgomery concentrated his vision on Carney's sightless eyes. He then concentrated his entire force of will upon a desire that Carney should see. After a few minutes Carney declared that Montgomery was in the room. This was continued for weeks, until Carney's sight was restored.

A FEUD ENDS IN DEATH

One Farmer Kills Another Near Cincinnati.

VICTIM MRS. HARMON'S COUSIN.

The Murderer Declares His Enemy Threw a Stone, Which Caused Him to Shoot—The Victim Told a Different Story Before He Died.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—Frederick Hollowell has been fatally shot by David Huston. Both are wellknown farmers. On meeting in the highway an old feud was revived. Hollowell threw a stone, and Huston fired and escaped.

The shooting occurred at Rockdale. Hollowell is a cousin of Mrs. Judson Harmon, wife of Attorney General Harmon. His story, told before he died, was that he ran when Huston drew his pistol, and that Huston fired twice, missing him; that he then looked back and received the fatal shot in the forehead. This contradicts Huston, who said Hollowell stooped to pick up a rock and that he then fired.

Sidney Williams has been fatally stabbed by John Ellis. The latter was beating his wife when Williams interfered, Mrs. Ellis being a sister of Williams.

SENATOR SHERMAN TALKS.

He Explains a Point Brought Out in the Horr-Harvey Debate.

MANSFIELD, O., July 23.—In the Harvey-Horr debate at Chicago, Saturday, Mr. Horr said there was a provision in the act of 1873 for a 384-grain dollar worth five francs, which was afterwards struck out in the senate before the bill was passed. Mr. Harvey denied that it was struck out by the senate, and said that if that were so he would stop the debate right there.

In an interview Senator Sherman stated that this provision was added to the bill after it reached the house at the instigation of the citizens of California, who produce both gold and silver, but that it was struck out when the bill reached the senate. Mr. Sherman also disputed a number of Mr. Harvey's statements.

MINE OWNERS TO MEET.

They Will Discuss in Cleveland the Iron Miners' Strike.

CLEVELAND, July 23.—The directors of the several iron mining combanies with mines in the vicinity of Negaunee, Mich., will hold a meeting here within a day or two to consider what action shall be taken concerning the big miners' strike.

The men demand $2 per day for miners, $1.75 for unskilled underground labor and $1.50 per day for unskilled surface labor. More than 5,000 men are affected by the strike.

William Mather, who is largely interested in the Cleveland Cliffs Mining company, said that the demand for an increase in wages had come so unexpectedly that he was unprepared to state whether it was justified or not.

The Stamping Works Failure.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 23.—The stamping works failure, which wrecked Governor McKinley's finances, is at last being brought into something like definite shape on the winding up of suit brought by the creditors against the stockholders to satisfy the former's claims. The stockholders were held under the stockholders' liability law, for the par value of their stock. The company was capitalized at $40,000, but a greater portion of the stock is worthless. It is estimated now that from $12,000 to $18,000 will be collected from the stockholders. The liabilities are $103,000. Some other funds will be added to this amount paid in by the stockholders, so that the creditors will realize from 20 to 35 per cent on the dollar.

Another Killed by the Storm.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—The same storm which killed Mrs. Clem Wilson and George Deselm in the campmeeting, near Zanesville, also did considerable damage at a number of points near Salem. Elisha Brigham was killed and Charles Blyth and Jacob Wishgart were badly injured by their house being struck by lightning.

Cleveland Firm Gets It.

BALTIMORE, July 23.—The contract for constructing the new court house, has been awarded to John Gill and Sons, of Cleveland. Their bid, $1,849,000, was the lowest of the four considered. The Messrs. Gill agreed to finish the building in three years.

Glasscock Resting His Arm.

WHEELING, July 23.—Jack Glasscock of the Washingtons is at home here nursing a sore arm. He indignantly denies the report sent out from Washington that his arm is "dead," and that his playing days are over.

To Save Mrs. Sprague's Property.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—A syndicate of prominent men has been formed to pay off the mortgages on the property of Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, to keep the property from being sold.

SMALL OHIO HAPPENINGS.

The strike at the Dayton Malleable Ironworks has been declared off.

Four hundred men have struck for an increase in wages at the Lake Shore foundry, Cleveland.

Edward O'Connell, a wellknown character, was struck and instantly killed by an electric car at New Boston, near Portsmouth. He was intoxicated.

Charles Stollard shot his brother William in the abdomen in Tarlton. William, who had been drinking, refused to go home when his brother Charles, who is marshal of the village, told him and a quarrel ensued.

Mr. E. F. Fisher, of the Ohio Southern at Springfield, has been made chairman of a committee of local railroad men, who are taking the necessary steps towards securing cheap rates on the railroads for the Democratic state convention.

Charles Smith, an elderly gentleman who resided with his sister in Dayton, accidentally fell down stairs and died a few moments later. An examination showed that no bones were broken, and death presumably resulted from the shock.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Two or three young men from this city are said to have been involved in a fight in Wellsville on Sunday night.

Flower thieves are once more a nuisance, several lawns having recently been stripped of their beauty.

The Tourist club, of East End, entertained their friends last night by an enjoyable party and dance. A large crowd was present.

Miss Bessie Baxter, of Second street, entertained last night in honor of Miss Nettie Ebersole, who is visiting here from Carrollton.

The late rains have done much to improve oats, corn, potatoes and pastures in this county, but could not help fruit. That crop will be very poor.

The high price of hay is discouraging the owners of horses, and one remarked today that horses would soon be cheaper than ever in this vicinity.

A number of wheelmen will go to Steubenville on Thursday to see the first professional bicycle races ever conducted in this section. All the crack riders will be there.

The lawn fete conducted by the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church last night was largely attended, and resulted in the collection of a goodly sum for the church.

A dog fight of no mean proportions occurred in the alley between Sixth and Seventh streets last night, one canine limping away with one front leg dangling in the air and almost chewed away.

The ball game between the shoe men and the dry goods fraternity was postponed yesterday because of the dampened condition of West End park. In some places the water was deep on the diamond.

Several strangers were in town today for a short time looking over the approaches of the proposed bridge. They were contractors who expect to have sub-contracts when the work is apportioned out this week.

The game of ball between the Young Men's Christian association and the Shamrocks this afternoon will find the former team in bad condition, Albright and Cartwright, their catchers, being hopelessly disabled.

Mrs. Jack Rowe, who has for several months been very ill at her home on Washington street, is able to be out. The lady's recovery is in the nature of a surprise to her friends, since it was expected she could not recover.

"I believe that scheme of the Crockery Journal to sell ware direct to the consumer is a good thing," said a prominent manufacturer last night. "It don't cost as much as agents, and is unique enough to attract attention."

The friends of R. N. Taylor, the Cantor attorney who recently disappeared, will be pleased to learn that he has returned from the west, and announced that the separation from his wife was a mutual agreement. He will locate in some western state.

Squire Rose is taking a vacation at Silver Thorn Park, W. Va. He will be at home on Saturday afternoon next, July 27. We understand that the clever magistrate is going on a haymaking frolic. He bears the reputation, like unto Horace Greeley, of being a farmer from away back.

A novice was riding a wheel in the Diamond yesterday afternoon and collided with the rear of a passing wagon. He was thrown off, and only had time to get out of the way of a horse coming from the opposite direction. The horse gracefully jumped over the wheel, while the rider, in astonishment, picked it up and rode away.

Gladys, the three months old child of George M. Eells, of Jackson square, died on Sunday at the home of its grandfather near West Point, where the family were visiting. The funeral took place this afternoon, interment being made at Madison church. The little sufferer was seized with cholera infantum and died soon after it was attacked.

The many friends of Curt Welsh will be pleased to learn that East Liverpool's pride is making a name for himself in the Eastern league, where he is now playing with the Syracuse team. "Curt Welsh is playing in his old time form," says the Sporting Life, "and when you say that for him it is all said." That is enough. It means that Welsh is playing the best ball in the league, and will insure him a place in the big organization next year if he continues in the straight and narrow way.

They tell a good story on an attorney who began to enjoy his vacation yesterday. He had his work so arranged that he could start to rest bright and early Monday morning, and to make it doubly sure he would do no labor that day he shouldered a fishing rod, tucked the bait away in his coat pocket, and walked several miles up the river looking for a good place to fish. During the day his lunch was stolen by a dog, he stepped on a rotten root and fell ito the river, and he walked home at eventide the most tired man in town. He now thinks of spending his vacation in the back yard at home.

A COOL RETREAT.

Has Every Desirable Facility for an Enjoyable Sojourn.

Persons desiring to combine recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion with their summer outing will find Eagle Lake, on the Pennsylvania Lines, near Wassaw, Ind., the ideal spot. This pretty resort is the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies. The grounds have been well and favorably known as Spring Fountain Park. They constitute about two hundred acres of romantic woodland, stretching nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Eagle lake, a beautiful sheet of water. The grounds have been plotted and pretty cottages constitute the summer homes of persons who find health and rest-giving recreation in invigorating air amid attractive surroundings. Some desirable cottage sites are yet obtainable. In addition to the portions laid out for building purposes, a fine park has been made. There is also a race track with overlooking amphitheater, furnishing splendid facilities for out door athletic sports. The large auditorium has a seating capacity of 3,000, and the several college halls are used for Assembly purposes. A good hotel, restaurant and supply stores furnish means of living at reasonable rates. A large fleet of row boats, with two steamers, will permit indulgence in boating, and persons fond of fishing may enjoy that pastime to satisfactory extent, as the lake teems with fish. The low tourist rates over the Pennsylvania Lines place these pleasures within easy reach. The rate will be in effect all season from ticket stations on these lines. In addition to the season tourist tickets, a low rate will also be in effect for round trip tickets, good fifteen days. Ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Lines will furnish them, and they may be obtained from agents of connecting lines. The Assembly department opens July 1 and continues four weeks, during which time prominent speakers will discuss live topics. During August there will be educational work under President John M. Coulter, of Lake Forest university, in connection with the assembly. For details regarding rates of fare, time of trains, etc., apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line ticket agent, or address F. VAN DUSEN, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Applications for information concerning the resort should be addressed to Secretary E. S. Scott, Eagle Lake, Ind.

POLICE PROTECTION.

The Man on the Monument Has a Few Words on Holiness.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—My complaint is a complaint of long standing. It is a growl and a snarl, a result of long suffering on the part of a quiet man, but I hope from the bottom of my hardened old heart that it will be heard and appreciated by the people who suffer as I suffer, but have the power of speech to make their misery known to their fellow humans. Of course, the town doesn't care to the amount of a lump of sugar who I am, but, for my own satisfaction, I am going to tell. Then you will know, Mr. Editor, that, like the preacher, I talk with understanding. I am a silent generality, with individual traits that would make me unpopular if my friends, the dear, good public, could but fathom the workings of this heavy brain; but I am going to speak right out in meeting this time, and if I am deserted, then remember me for what I did before I found my voice.

In the past you have abused me by calling me the tin soldier and directing attention to the mistake of clothing a man in gray iron, instead of decking him in blue marble, when you all know I was a good union soldier. You have scoffed because I hold this coloriess banner in my cold left hand, and point to the glorious colors of the standard it ought to represent. However, I will forget these things and smooth away my indignation (for have you not decked me with flowers and flags on celebration days?), and tell you why I complain.

I am the soldier on the monument, and for years, in sunshine and rain. I have endured the position of "attention," with eyes to the front, without a murmur. I have, however, in that time been allowed the use of my ears, too large for my head, of course, but nevertheless useful, and few things have happened in this place without me hearing something about it. I have heard many disagreeable sounds, from the excruciating crying of babies at a Prohibition meeting to the painful humor of a smooth tongued fakir robbing the people. I have listened to the wail of the poor and the sob of the motherless and have been near when the poor, besotted drunkard cursed the police as he was tumbled unceremoniously into the patrol. I have at times stood half ashamed at base profanity and open vulgarity, while my whole being rose up in indignation when some wild eyed Populistic advocate shouted himself hoarse in a vain endeavor to convince the people he was an orator. All these things have I heard from my youth up, yea and many more, when, like any respectable monument, I should have been gazing in open mouthed wonder or sleepily looking out upon the scene without one iota of interest; but never have I heard that which shocked even my standard of hardened morality, anything comparable with the blasphemy of the people who pretend each night to preach the Gospel and flaunt their unholy doctrines in my very face.

Mr. Editor, I am not a Christian, because I never go to church and I am never called upon to put any portion of my hard earned savings into the collection basket. No man of God has ever taken me by the hand and urged me to forsake the life I live, and no woman's tender touch has wiped the sweat from my fevered brow or cooled my burning thirst with one drop of that sparkling but unhealthy water flowing from the fount not ten feet from my position. The gentle clasp of chubby infant arms has never swept my blistering neck, nor has the soft glow of fire on a cold winter night warmed the freezing blood in these iron cased veins. I have never known these things, I say, and they are the parts of life which make men feel there is some Power other than their own exertions to bless this weary life.

But let us return to the complaint. You now know that it is nothing more important than these presumptuous preachers who declare, without apparent fear of being stricken dead, their immunity from sin. I want them moved from the Diamond. Let them hold their meetings elsewhere. True, speech is a good thing, but like all good things it can be abused. They abuse it, and therefore deserve to forfeit the right, or at least be so curtailed in their practice as to compel a recognition of civil law. They libel good men and good women every night they preach, and curse themselves in sin when they claim to believe they are praising God. While I will not say they are demoralizing the community, for it would be frivolity to think that crowd could demoralize anything but themselves, I do say, and say it emphatically, that they are injuring the city. Men come here from other towns, good men and bad men, for I have heard them talk in the Diamond, and they carry away with them a wrong impression. They think our people are all affected that way, for I heard one remark:

"There are more cranks to the square inch in Liverpool than in any town I visit."

Of course that isn't so, but he had cause to believe what he said if he judged the town by what he saw in the Diamond. If my poor, cast iron judgment is any good, the holiness people would not long remain in the Diamond. If necessary I would rip out all other public gatherings there to keep them away. Their doctrine is founded upon the unphilosophic theory that money is of no use to a man when he is a Christian, that they are doing wrong when they help to pay the poor preacher. It is my belief that all could listen with profit to the poorest preacher in the city, and money spent in that way would not be thrown away. Money and the Christian religion are closely identified, for when they had no Christian religion in this country they had no money, and every year the United States sends millions of dollars to heathen lands where the gospel is being spread.

But I am no preacher, only a kicker, and we wont discuss religion. All I ask is action. Just think, Mr. Editor, of listening to the awful grammar and miserable rhetoric I am compelled to hear every evening. Imagine yourself standing as I stand; unable to move, and hearing that same old fanatical ranting night after night. It is enough to drive even a tin man tired. All I ask is police protection. I dont care whether these rollers, or whatever they may please to call them, go to church or hold their meetings in the desert, but I do want peace, and I have a sense of pride. Even my flinty (no irony) heart almost bleeds when night after night I see the finger of scorn pointed at this old town I have learned to love so well.

Very truly,
THE MAN ON THE MONUMENT.

A SOURCE OF LOSS.

Small Boys Break the Light Company's Globes.

Manager Bostwick, of the Light Company, is awakening to the fact that something must be done or the small boy will bring the concern to bankruptcy. Every day it is reported at his office that one or more globes on the arc lights have been broken, and the glass falling to the street proves an annoyance to bicycle riders. Mr. Bostwick proposes to stop the practice, as there is an ordinance which allows the mayor to inflict a fine for the offense. At the first opportunity some guilty youth will find himself in jail.

Died in Hookstown.

Mrs. Carson Robb, a well known lady residing at Hookstown, was buried there this afternoon, having died on Sunday night after a long illness. Her infant child passed away several days ago, and it was thought for a time the mother would recover. Deceased was the daughter of Bemona Reed, of West End, who attended the funeral this afternoon. Mrs. Williard Mercer and Mrs. W. T. Pilgrim were also present from this city.

Near to Death.

Mrs. Salisbury, a widow lady residing in the West End, is suffering severely from a cancer, and her death is thought to be only the question of a short time. She was for some time in a Pittsburg hospital, where an operation was performed in the belief that a tumor was the cause of her trouble. The lady suffers great agony, and last night her screams could have been heard a block away.

Another Case.

A sad case of destitution was developed today right in the city. A sick father and a weak mother could not care for their family of four children, and they were almost in a starving condition when help came unexpectedly to relieve them.

Moved to Akron.

C. A. Goddard is moving his household effects to Akron, where he will open a photograph gallery. He has been in business here for several years, and has many friends to wish him good fortune in his new home.

Some Fine Dogs.

William Wedgewood, of Simms addition, received two fine bird dogs this morning from Chicago. They are the most valuable animals in this section, and are attracting attention among the owners of blooded canines.

IN Society women often feel the effect of too much gayety—balls, theatres, and teas in rapid succession find them worn out, or "run-down" by the end of the season. They suffer from nervousness, sleeplessness and irregularities. The smile and good spirits take flight. It is time to accept the help offered in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a medicine which was discovered and used by a prominent physician for many years in all cases of "female complaint" and the nervous disorders which arise from it. The "Prescription" is a powerful uterine tonic and nervine, especially adapted to woman's delicate wants for it regulates and promotes all the natural functions, builds up, invigorates and cures.

Many women suffer from nervous prostration, or exhaustion, owing to congestion or to disorder of the special functions. The waste products should be quickly got rid of, the local source of irritation relieved and the system invigorated with the "Prescription." Do not take the so-called celery compounds, and nervines which only put the nerves to sleep, but get a lasting cure with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"FEMALE WEAKNESS."

MRS. HOOVER.

MRS. WILLIAM HOOVER, of Bellville, Richland Co., Ohio, writes: "I had been a great sufferer from 'female weakness;' I tried three doctors; they did me no good; I thought I was an invalid forever. But I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and then I wrote to him and he told me just how to take it. I took eight bottles. I now feel entirely well. I could stand on my feet only a short time, and now I do all my work for my family of five."

MARIE MULLE-BELL.

A Woman Who Is Pianiste, Prima Donna and Conductress Rolled Into One.

Marie Mulle-Bell, the present prima donna of the Castle Square theater, Boston, is remarkably well equipped for the profession which she has been following successfully for ten years or so. She is a Bostonian of German parentage and is a sister of that attractive little body, Ida Mulle, whose forte lies in the direction of burlesque and extravaganza. As a child Marie Mulle was a phenomenal pianiste, and her father, himself an excellent musician, decided that his daughter must become a world famous performer. To that end the best masters of the Hub were employed, and the youthful pupil progressed amazingly, at one time directing an orchestra of women, when the conductress imported from England refused to do the work. This resulted in a similar engagement on the road with the "Adamless Eden" company, of which Pauline Hall was the prima donna.

Miss Mulle at about this time was wooed and won by Alex Bell, the well known English tenor, whose death occurred recently. When "The Mikado" was produced in New York, Marie Mulle-Bell was the Yum Yum, and her excellent work in that not "overfat" role firmly established her as one of the best prima donna soubrettes in this country. For two seasons, in the first flush of Charles H. Hoyt's great success, Mrs. Bell was under his management in "A Bunch of Keys" and "A Brass Monkey," after which she took a further course of vocal instruction with Mme. Murio-Celli. Then she sang in London for the first time with the Grand Opera company, making her debut in "The Bohemian Girl" as Arline to the Thaddeus of the great Sims Reeves.

Since her return to this country Mrs. Bell has been at different times the prima donna of the Carleton, the Grau and the Murray & David Opera companies as well as of several summer organizations.

Mrs. Mulle-Bell is quite petite. Her speaking voice is particularly pleasing, while her singing voice, considered in all the registers, is one of the best on the light opera stage, being distinguished for purity and absolute accuracy rather than for any remarkable strength. As a pianiste the lady has few equals among women, and she is a conductress of really great power and facility. Add to all these qualifications a particularly comely and agreeable personality, and the secret of Mrs. Mulle-Bell's success is not difficult to discover.

national schuetzenfest in Brooklyn recently. Ross had met the best marksmen in the United States in the contest for the king's medal and had made 371 points, the best score of the competition. Mike Dorrier, Gus Zimmerman, A. Strecker and other famous shots were beaten by Ross.

George Helm of the San Francisco Schuetzenverein made the best record of the meeting, 75 out of a possible 75 on the ring target, and was the first prize winner on the target of honor Germania. He got $300 for having hit the exact center of the Germania. A. Strecker of the San Francisco Rifle club was the winner of the first prize on the main target, his score being 97 out of 100.

GRETCHEN LYONS.

Born to the Stage, She Has Made a Success of Her Profession.

Gretchen Lyons may be said to have been born on the stage, as her parents were professional people, and the stuffy atmosphere of the greenroom and the "painty" smell of the flies are more familiar to her than the odor of the fields and the air of the country.

Miss Lyons made her mundane debut in London a little more than 17 years ago.

GRETCHEN LYONS.

Her father E. D. Lyons, was then, as he is now, one of the best character actors on the English speaking stage, and little Gretchen appeared to have inherited his ability. When she was five years of age, the embryo ingenue made her first appearance in the company of the celebrated Kate Bateman, in the English metropolis. This was followed by a long engagement under the managerial banner of Augustus Harris, during which she played child parts in "Pluck" and other comedies. Miss Lyons' next role was in that elaborate but absurd panorama, "Human Nature," which was foolishly denominated a play, and which later enjoyed some success in this country under the title of "The Soudan."

At about this time Miss Lyons' parents decided that instead of acting and studying lessons she must give up the former temporarily and devote herself exclusively to her books. She was therefore packed off to one of the best schools in England, where she remained until last year, when, her father having scored a great success as a member of Richard Mansfield's company, she came over to this country.

Miss Gretchen's first American engagement was in the company of Edwin Milton Royle, with whom she remained during the entire season, playing the part of Jennie Merrewether in the comedy drama, "Friends," so well that she received extravagant praise for her work from critics in all parts of the country. Miss Lyons is now with the summer stock company at the Academy of Music, Quebec. She has been cast for the ingenue and soubrette roles in a large number of the standard comedies. For next season Miss Lyons has not decided which of the offers under consideration she will accept.

In appearance Miss Lyons is attractive, although she is not, strictly speaking, pretty. She is very vivacious, and her stage work is marked by much of the originality of conception for which her father is noted. She ought to win even greater triumphs in her chosen profession.
